ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE.

If you or a loved one has been diagnosed with mild to moderate Alzheimer's disease, you may be eligible to participate in a global research study. The purpose of this study is to evaluate an investigational medication as a future potential disease-modifying treatment.

Volunteers may receive, at no cost, study-related:

- Investigational medication
- Medical care
- Laboratory testing
- Cognitive testing

Participants can continue taking their current Alzheimer's medication along with the investigational medication.

Medical insurance is not necessary to participate in this study. In addition, reimbursement for meals and travel may be available.
